

QLYC....“Messabout” Day at the Club Sunday Nov 4, 2012

A day of fun and frolicking for all in Swan Bay!!

The club showed off it best on Sunday when one of the annual “messabout” days was held with local members and visitors to enjoy the tranquillity and serenity of Swan Bay.

Over thirty people took time to partake of a BBQ and the offerings of our small club in all types of water craft from canoes, kayaks, off the beach sailing and just some paddling!

The new burgee was flying above the fleet on the water and showing the good wind available to her sailors!

As can be seen, the adventures were numerous and extensive with sailors venturing into the “deeper waters” of Swan Bay as the day wore on.

The catamaran fleet took some time to take to the lack of their wind earlier in the day and took to greater exploits as the wind took hold after a good lunch.

A canoe was always a great place to rest and let some others do the work!!

Paddling or sailing was to be the effort for a great day relaxing on the water.

The efforts were well rewarded as mainsails went up and the previous generation of sailors put their talents to work with the younger members and visitors.

Some sat about as the sun shone and the frivolities continued...there is always a place for a tan!!

Next "Messabout" day is December 2nd commencing at 11 am so please come down for more fun and frivolity!

Remember: Next week it is a Stern Chaser with Ray Maki Race 3 in the series, and briefing at Middy.

We will be hosting Army staff for crew, so be prepared to add at least one to your numbers, and remember first in best dressed, with those who will be best equipped and knowledgeable in the art of sailing!!
